Upcoming Programs

Sunday, November 7, 2010, 10:00 am: "Respect for the Web of All Existence: How Wicca Affirms and Promotes Our 7th Principle," presented by Rev.

Selena Fox. This is the first in the lay series: How the world's religions use their beliefs and practices to care for our environment. Wicca is a nature-based religion that celebrates the cycles of nature with believers who seek to live in harmony with Mother Earth. Internationally known Wiccan priestess, Selena Fox, will tell us how followers of the Craft respect and care for our ecosphere. Selena is founder and co-executive director of Circle Sanctuary in Barneveld, WI, a 200 acre nature preserve in Barneveld, WI.

Sunday, November 14, 2010, 10:00 am: "Words, Words, Words," presented by Rev. Jane Esbensen.

One of the things that can be said without dispute about UUs is that we talk a lot! One of the other things that can be said about UUs is that we are very particular about the words that we use, especially in our Sunday morning services. This Sunday will be a service about the power of words, and how they can open hearts and minds, or turn us away from the greater causes that lie before us.

Sunday, November 21, 2010, 10:00 am: "Stone Soup," Thanksgiving

Intergenerational, led by Robin Proud. When it feels as though we are living in a time of scarcity, how can we act from a place of abundance? This service relates a familiar story, reminding us of the power of sharing and giving. The cast of this drama will be our Religious Education students and members of the congregation. We encourage you to bring non-perishable food items to donate to a local food shelter, and to join us for Soup Sunday after the service.
