WISCONSIN WOMEN'S HISTORY CALENDAR

The Wisconsin National Organization for Women is selling a 1986 wall calendar featuring prominent women from Wisconsin's past and present. The calendar, entitled "Wisconsin Women...Then and NOW" can be purchased for $6.50 by stopping by the NOW office at 625 West Washington Ave, in Madison or be calling 255-3911. All proceeds will benefit Wisconsin NOW and help further its agenda of full equality for women.

Missing: a small boat transformer, lost at Prairie on Sunday, December 29. If found, return to Robin Park-Doob or Bob Park.

Rachel Siegfried is looking for someone interested in sharing her house. There are 3 unfurnished rooms: a bedroom with a queen-sized bed, study, and den. Share bath kitchen, and large living room. February 1. Call 271-2173.

HAVE YOU BEEN RUNNING YELLOW LIGHTS?
Make a new year's resolution to stop running yellow lights (which soon become red). One useful idea is to think of a green light which has held for a long time as being "stale green" and prepare to stop.
